Why You Should Take This Study Abroad Course
It’s not just a three-week study abroad experience in Lisbon, Portugal. It’s about changing your perspective and starting to view the world as one big global marketplace. It’s about believing that the world no longer revolves around the United States. You need to understand other people, their cultures and perspectives in order to be a global citizen. Lisbon, Portugal is undergoing an amazing renaissance. It’s not just a breathtaking view into history, being one of the first places the Romans built shipping ports outside of Rome. The Lisbon entrepreneurial scene is booming and just appeared on the top five entrepreneurial places in Europe by Forbes. There is a sense of creating something, whether it’s a hot tech startup, designing a new fashion company, creating a new approach to alternative energy or a better way to grow and harvest sustainable crops.

What You Get
A class that opens your eyes on what it takes to create a company. You will either work for someone or they will work for you for the rest of your life. You get to choose. This is a case-study style course, which allows for way more flexibility and interaction than you’re used to in a regular SDSU semester. Plus, we limit the class size to 20 to increase the interaction. We also visit at least five local companies so you can get a flavor of local life.

You get a full 3 units for Fundamentals of Entrepreneurship (MGT 358). This course is required for both the Major/Minor in Entrepreneurship; however anyone who is a Junior or Senior at SDSU can experience this transformative course.

Course: Fundamentals of Entrepreneurship (MGT 358)
Who: Juniors or Seniors of any Major
Dates: December 27th 2015 - January 16th 2016

Eat, Sleep, Breathe Europe
The course is designed with two weekends off so you can travel around to London, Rome, Madrid, or Barcelona during one of the two free weekends put aside for exploration. This isn’t about putting a check mark next to studying abroad; this is about having insight into the world’s cultures and market trends in a way that will change the way you think.
